

DramaKids are developmental drama classes that are also a blast. Public speaking may be the number one fear in America (so says the Washington Post) but not for DramaKids!

It's all about confidence and creativity. Children imagine scenes and act them out, leading or working together while projecting their voices, articulating their words and having fun.

Teacher Mindy is phenomenal, as several WES parents can attest. Mindy toured the nation for two years performing in Up With People, including two Super Bowl half-time shows. She's taught kids from preschool to middle school and she's bringing her infectious joy to WES.
